Council

Annual Report

Fiscal Year 1986

This report highlights major activities and accomplishments of Montana's Developmental Disabilities Planning and Advisory Council for the period October 1, 1985 through September 30, 1986. It's intended primarily for the Council's many constituents; however, it's also written for other parties, organizations and agencies which have an interest in events and accomplishments which improve the quality of life for persons with developmental disabilities. The report appendix contains information formatted specifically for consumption by the Council's federal associates who work within the Administration on Developmental Disabilities in Washington, D.C.

I. INTRODUCTION

A. Definition: a developmental disability is a severe, chronic set of functional limitations which:

1. Is attributable to a mental or physical impairment or combination of mental and physical impairments;
2. Is manifested before the person attains age twenty-two;
3. Is likely to continue indefinitely;
4. Results in substantial functional limitations in three or more of the following areas of major life activity:
 - a) self-care;
 - b) receptive and expressive language;
 - c) learning;
 - d) mobility;
 - e) self-direction;
 - f) capacity for independent living; and
 - g) economic self-sufficiency; and
5. Reflects the person's need for a combination and sequence of special, interdisciplinary, or generic care, treatment, or other services which are individually planned and coordinated.

This definition, established under Public Law 95-602, is the working definition of developmental disabilities. And it's from this reference the State Council directs its efforts in three major areas: 1) assistance in the provision of comprehensive services to persons with developmental disabilities with priority to those persons whose needs are not otherwise met under other federal legislation; 2) assistance to the State in appropriate planning activities; and, 3) granting of seed monies to public and private agencies to establish model programs, to demonstrate innovative habilitation techniques and to train professional and paraprofessional personnel in the provision of services to persons with developmental disabilities.

- B. Desired Outcomes: in the course of any one planning and activity year the Council seeks results from its work, as detailed above, which will increase the independence, integration and productivity of its constituents. These particular goals find the Council and its membership in concert with the principles of the federally mandated Protection and Advocacy Programs (in Montana, the Montana Advocacy Program). The final outcome of both programs is the enhancement of the quality of life for persons with developmental disabilities.
- C. Funding: Council monies come directly from the federal government by authorization of Public Law 98-527. Current funding for Montana's council is set at $300,000.00. Of this total amount, $195,000.00 is used to impact, directly, services and service needs for persons with developmental disabilities; the remaining $105,000.00 is applied to planning, advocacy and operational costs.
- D. 1986 Goals and Objectives: the Council, in keeping with its practice of annual review and, where appropriate, revision, of its Service and Advocacy Plan, put forth, for 1986, three major goals, five major objectives and 22 activities. Also in 1986, the Council revised the 1984-86, 3-year plan, and published, in August, the new, 3-year, 1987-89 Service and Advocacy Plan. Under federal law the Council's products must include goals and objectives based on a set of federally-mandated "Priority Service Areas". For 1986, the Council selected Child Development Services, and Alternative Community Living Arrangement Services.
1. Goal I: TO DEVELOP INNOVATIVE SERVICE CONCEPTS AND MODELS; TO DEMONSTRATE THEIR RESULTS AND ADVANTAGES AND TO ENCOURAGE LONG-RANGE PLANNING AND PROJECTION REGARDING FUTURE NEED OF AND RESULTS FROM THESE AND OTHER DEVELOPMENTAL DISABILITIES SERVICES.
- a) Objective 1: To encourage, foster and support 1) the development of needed and practical programs and service concepts for unserved and underserved persons; and, 2) the creation and implementation of staff development plans and strategies for these models.

- b) Objective 2: To encourage and support interagency planning by means of a coordinated process involving appropriate interagency representation and an endorsed, comprehensive and unified state plan for all of Montana's citizens with developmental disabilities.
- 2. Goal II: TO FOSTER ACTIVITIES WHICH WILL MITIGATE THE EFFECTS OF HANDICAPPING CONDITIONS ON MONTANA'S CITIZENRY AND WHICH WILL ENHANCE THE DELIVERY OF PUBLIC SERVICES.
 - a) Objective 3: To encourage the identification of new and improved treatment procedures through activities of research and development on behalf of Montana's preschoolers with developmental disabilities.
 - b) Objective 4: To reduce the incidence of birth defects in Montana.
- 3. Goal III: TO TARGET RESOURCES ON THE MOVEMENT OF PERSONS WITH DEVELOPMENTAL DISABILITIES TOWARD GREATER INDEPENDENCE IN BOTH RESIDENTIAL AND VOCATIONAL SETTINGS.
 - a) Objective 5: To promote the exit of individuals from structured developmental disabilities services to allow for movement to programs offering increased independence in residential and vocational areas of ability; and to promote, as a consequence, the development of new and/or the modification of existing services which are within projected resources and which answer unmet and other special needs of persons with developmental disabilities.

II. PROGRAMS AND ACTIVITIES/1986

- A. Forums and Conferences: the Community Citizen Advocacy Seminar, staged on June 4 & 5 in Helena, brought together 57 persons from across the state. The participants worked to refine their understanding of the principles of Citizen Advocacy (CA). The seminar, cosponsored by the Montana Advocacy Program and the State Planning Council, provided already-established CA programs with the chance to share personal and professional advocacy experiences. Persons and organizations seeking to initiate CA programs found the opportunity to benefit from the efforts of ongoing programs. The featured lecturer was John O'Brien, an internationally known figure in advocacy and normalization initiatives.

- B. Montana's five Regional Planning Councils, established by state law, linked with State Council resources, again this year, for two planning meetings. One such session took place on October 7, the other on December 10. With staff support from the State Council, both meetings served to provide regional councils with an active voice in major planning concerns at the state level. Participants in the first meeting testified at the public hearing of the Developmental Planning Task Force (DPTF [see below]) on October 8. Participants in the second session recapped the work of the DPTF and met with its staff person and the administrator of the state's developmental disabilities service system.
- C. The 1986 Montana Conference on Developmental Disabilities went to the city of Billings on October 2, 3 and 4. Keynote Speakers were 1) Judith E. Favell, Director of Psychology at Western Carolina Center in North Carolina; 2) Marvin G. Fifield, Senate Staff Member for the Senate Committee on Labor and Human Resources; and, 3) Paul E. Touchette, Associate in Psychology/Neurology, Harvard Medical School. Attendance exceeded 375 persons.
- D. Special Studies and Projects: Montana's Council facilitated one very important effort in 1985-86 which merits notation in this report:
 - 1. In the time between April 1983 and April 1985, Montana's developmental disabilities service system experienced close scrutiny, through interim legislative action, of its structure, services, needs and future directions. In spite of this thorough review and analysis, the results, by the Summer of '85, included, in essence, only some limited, albeit productive, expansion of needed services and some improvements in service-planning procedures. Much of what remained "untouched" begged for action. By the Fall of '85, the council had developed plans to pursue, systematically, these unattended issues. The intent in continuing was to formulate significant directions for future planning and funding of disability services. The result has been an ongoing study and analysis, by the DPTF, of the State's public and private, nonprofit services and systems. This task force had the council-madated mission of 1) monitoring service and program-improvement activities of the State; and, 2) reviewing and analyzing needs of unserved and underserved persons with developmental disabilities. During the State's 1987 Legislative Session, the task force will take its findings and recommendations before the legislators. The recently-formulated final recommendations include 1) consolidation of all services for persons with developmental disabilities under the same administrative authority; 2) development of specialized service and support organizations; and, 3) funding of supported living, adult congregate living and additional group-home programs.

E. Requests for Proposals (RFP's): again in 1986, Montana's Council developed and funded projects for services and for capacity-building under the auspices of its RFP Program. There were four Council-initiated proposals in 1986:

- (1) Information and development programs for non-profit governance boards;
- (2) Dual-diagnosis needs and services;
- (3) Prevention of prematurity;
- (4) Recreational and leisure-time needs and services.

Project (1) will produce eight, multi-media training modules for use by local, non-profit, service-provider boards of directors. Council priority-service dollars: $16,156.00 "time of performance": June 1986 through June 1987.

Project (2) provides for the design and demonstration of a comprehensive service-delivery model for persons with a dual diagnosis of mental retardation and mental illness. Council priority-service dollars: $22,500.00; "time of performance": September 1986 through August 1987.

Project (3) has created four separate project-programs designed to demonstrate effective "outreach" and professional services for the reduction of the incidence of newborns with low birthweight. The programs are operating in Billings, Bozeman, Dillon and Missoula. This particular initiative features cofunding by: 1) the Developmental Disabilities Planning and Advisory Council; 2) the Department of Health and Environmental Sciences; 3) the Montana Perinatal Association; 4) the Rocky Mountain Chapter of the March of Dimes; and, 5) the Big Sky Chapter of the March of Dimes. Council priority-service dollars: $23,340.00; "time of performance": August 1986 through June 1987. Total of cofunded-dollars: $69,000.00.

Project (4) provides for two, coordinated projects to provide a review, analysis and demonstration of leisure, recreation and outdoor educational opportunities, statewide, for persons with developmental disabilities. Council priority-service dollars: $30,519.00 ; "time of performance": July 1986 through June 1987.

Results from these special projects will be available for dissemination and use in the late Fall of 1987.

- F. Priorities for People (PFP): on February 23, 1984, the Department of Social and Rehabilitation Services initiated a unique budget-development program called "Priorities for People." Its design actively involved consumers and consumer representatives, (that is to say, persons with handicaps, senior citizens, children and youth, and the economically needy) in the state's established budget-building process. This collective group was to act as "budget advisors" to the Governor, the legislature and the department. Consensus Agreement became the primary tool of this initiative. The outcomes -- a comprehensive budget proposal reaching from expanded appropriations to resolutions for improved service delivery and resource management -- were to be its products for Legislative consumption.

PFP continued its work in 1986 beyond its successes in with the 1985 Legislative Session. Council's representative also continued with the group and its rigorous meeting schedule in 1986. This past year, PFP worked, in particular, at developing recommendations for restructuring services into a more cost-effective, better integrated, community-based system for all of the State's discrete populations of service consumers (with and without apparent disabilities) from children and youth through senior-citizen groups.

B. A Glance Backward: Council's 1985 special initiatives have all drawn to a close. The initial results and outcomes are detailed here. As the 1987 plan year moves by, Council offices will make determinations, based on Evaluation Committee findings, about project dissemination and replication activities for these completed projects.

1. Technical Assistance For Service Standards: this project provided training for service providers in preparing for quality-assurance reviews. The standards in force in the state are those of the Accreditation Council on Services for People with Developmental Disabilities (ACDD). The project also provided assistance in the development of the State's administrative rule on quality-assurance standards. Products were: a final report on training/workshop results and on rule development.
2. Birth - Age 21 Needs and Services: this project provided an analysis of the current service system for the range of ages birth to 21 years. Outcomes included policy recommendations, planning manuals, coded planning "matrices" and service-location wall charts.
3. The employment-initiative projects consisted of three separate programs aimed at greater understanding and awareness of 1) employment needs and employment characteristic of persons with developmental disabilities; and, 2) appropriate employment opportunities. The first__of the projects analyzed employment-training options and provided a compendium of job opportunities, in the state, for persons with developmental disabilities. The second__ program provided 8 one-day workshops for personnel directors and other private-sector persons with an interest in supervising employees with developmental disabilities. And the third project produced a private-sector workbook and training manual for employers of persons with developmental disabilities.

4. Professional Training/Offenders with Developmental Disabilities: this program developed a set of self-paced training modules and a comprehensive training manual for persons working within the Montana's criminal justice system. User audiences included: the judiciary, legal advocates, and law enforcement personnel. A dissemination conference took place in October of '86 in conjunction with the Montana Conference on Developmental Disabilities. Criminal justice personnel throughout the state have welcomed this much-needed element of continuing education. And the Council has funded a second printing of the training materials to meet the demand statewide.

IV. Resources

- A. Staff: The Council has, at its disposal, 3 staff persons...one professional, one paraprofessional and one half-time clerical position. These individuals serve the Council, its committees, its ad-hoc working groups, and, indirectly, persons with developmental disabilities. Because the Council's overall, annual activities tax staff resources to the limit, all 3 persons work at all professional, administrative and clerical capacities, as necessary, to enable the Council in its work. The test of time has shown this arrangement to be a cost-effective and sagacious use of necessarily limited personnel resources.
- B. Office/Planning Facilities: during the period October 1981 through May 1985, the Council maintained one office, of 190 square feet, for two staff persons in the SRS Building at 111 Sanders Street in Helena. Early in 1985, the Council directed staff to relocate to a setting more appropriate to the Council's role and scope of activities. In May 1985, the staff relocated to 25 South Ewing and a three-room office-setting on the fifth floor of the former Saint John's Hospital. The Council now supports a staff of three in 522 square feet of useable office space. Council offices remained at this location in 1986.

Council office operations continued, in 1986, to include use of IBM-compatible computer equipment. All three staff persons are qualified and proficient in its use. This equipment allows for increased staff productivity in important areas such as research and report-writing, contract production and committee work, budget control and accountability, and information dissemination. The equipment is a welcome and cost-effective part of the Council's planning and capacity-building resources.

State Council Membership Roster

This roster includes those persons who were on the Council on October 1, 1981, or who have served sometime during the period 10/1/81 to the present (Note: a complete roster, since inception of the Council in 1970, is available at Council offices). In Federal Fiscal Year 1986 (FFY 86), the Council's 22 members pursued an active schedule of Helena-based meetings and one, two-day, out-of-town meeting in Bozeman, Montana. There were six of these full-membership meetings for a total of 10 meeting-days. Moreover, the Council's standing committees - Evaluation, Finance and Planning - conducted a total of 17 one-day meetings and one two-day (Finance) meeting. The Council-staffed Interagency Planning Forum, a planning and information-exchange medium for major state agencies, met three times in FFY 86.
